BEGINS NEXT WEEKEighth Street Temple Will Celebrate
Its Sixtieth Anniversary with Extensive Services.

The sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, on Eighth street, will occur December 5 and elaborate plans are now being made for a celebration of the event to extend over several days. The church has an interesting history and has a great influence in molding the religious life and character of thousands who have come under its spiritual and educational control.

In April, 1852, a band of 23 young men met and formed a small congregation, but it was not until December 2, 1855, that they obtained a charter from Congress. It is said that the action Congress took on that date represented the triumph of religious equality in the District.

During the civil war, the congregation carried on the work of a public school, instruction being given in English, arithmetic, German, and geography, in addition to religious instruction. With the growth of the public school system, the secular branches were eliminated.

The celebration to begin next Friday at the Eighth Street Temple will be participated in by some of the most distinguished Hebrew educators and preachers in the United States. In addition to the regular Sabbath and feast of lights services Friday night, Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of Philadelphia, creator and president of the National Hebrew School, will speak on "The Hypocrites Jew." Rabbi Abram Simon and Louis Stern will conduct the Saturday morning service and Sunday morning the children of the temple will participate in the annual feast of lights. On Sunday evening a public celebration will be held to bring to a close the anniversary exercises. In addition to the musical program, Senator William E. Borah, Rev. Dr. William Rosemary, of Baltimore, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, and Rev. Dr. Philipson, of Cincinnati, will give addresses.

PLANNING ANOTHER
MILITARY BOOGraduates and Former High School Students Meet to Form Organizations.

DEFENSE IS MAIN OBJECT

Expect Aid from War Department.
Each Member Pledges Himself to Gain Ten Additional Ones.

Military men went another step forward yesterday when a group of former high school students met to arrange for their organization into a military corps. The meeting, held in the Perpetual Building, Eleventh and E streets northwest, was attended both by former students and older men who hope to direct their military training.

The proposed organization is primarily for national defense purposes, declared Frank H. Ketchum, one of the sponsors. Other backers of the plan are Stanley M. Clarke and Michael Heilig. The three conceived the idea some weeks ago, and since have been sounding students on the scheme.

Membership in the organization is not restricted to graduates of high schools, the qualifications being that military training must be by-lawed. There are several thousand high school alumni in the District who have gone through the military training of the schools, and twice as many young men, who dropped out of their classes before graduation, but who had belonged to the school cadet organizations.

Want War Department Aid.

The plan for the organizing of the regional military corps has been approved for national defense. Secondary reasons are for the upkeep of the members in physical and mental training, a result of military drill, and for social purposes. Mr. Ketchum, Ketchum and Clarke and Heilig have not determined how they will secure the equipment for the regiment, nor where the training and club quarters will be. They hope to secure aid from the War Department, at least in the matter of military instructors.

Mr. Ketchum declared the plan is novel, both for the District and the country. While there are hundreds of military organizations in high schools and colleges, an organization of former high school students, has never been attempted, he said.

The students who attended the meeting yesterday pledged themselves to take up the plan with their former classmates and each to attempt to secure at least ten enlistments in the movement. A second meeting will be held within the next two or three weeks, when organization details will be perfected.

Among the attendees were K. Keys, James P. Wayland, Arthur C. Carr, Dr. Simon Karpela, George T. Starmont, Frank H. Ketchum, Richard B. Owens, Charles S. Korman, Lawrence M. Kennedy, S. W. Soverbutts, Frederick S. Hazard, Arthur I. Tate, J. B. Jones, Joseph C. Furber, James C. Karna, John R. Harvey, William O. Williams, E. R. Russ, Michael Heilig, and Stanley M. Clarke.

their sympathy, consideration, and assistance. "That, however, which really brought about the result in fact, saved the boy's life, was the intervention of Mr. Roosevelt. I appealed to him. He responded with characteristic interest, force, and directness."

Mr. Roosevelt has consented to permit me to publish the following letter, which he sent me after we were informed of the decision reached in the case.

Col. Roosevelt's letter reads: "I have received from the British Ambassador at Washington, a letter stating that Sir Edward Grey and Mr. Balfour have carefully gone over the facts about Mr. Triest, as set forth in my letter. They tell me that they find that Triest shows no signs of madness, but may have an unbalanced mind, and that the British government is prepared to give him the benefit of the doubt."

England's One Condition. "He continues: 'What they are prepared to agree to is the following: If the father comes over to England and makes himself responsible for taking his son in his own personal charge and escort back to America, the boy will be handed over without being brought to trial. If he is brought out of the country, he will be sent to a sanitarium, at least until this war is over.'"

"If he has in any way recovered, then he should bring him to me and give me the opportunity to explain to him in the presence of his father and of yourself the terrible character of the offense he has committed and the heavy load of obligation he and his family are under to the British government. I wish him to understand that the offense in his case is not only an offense against the law of nations, but an offense against the law of honor as understood by gentlemen. An offense which—if it had not been committed when his mind was unbalanced—would have been an offense against the honor of a high standard of professional and personal probity and honor."

"Butcher of Miss Cavell." "Moreover, he should understand and appreciate the contrast between the conduct of the British government in his case, and the conduct of the German government in permitting and sanctioning, in order to be truthful, only describe as the butchery of Miss Cavell."

"Miss Cavell was butchered for actions that were taken by hundreds, probably thousands of women in our own country—and it never entered the heads of either the Union or Confederate governments that it was possible so much as to consider putting to death these women. The execution of Miss Cavell was a deed of black horror—and when I saw the account of it I confess I did not believe the British government would interfere in the case of young Triest."

"Of course, the British government had a thousandfold more justification for interfering upon the execution of Triest than the German government had for putting to death Miss Cavell. The boy should be made to understand the mercy and magnanimity with which the British government has treated him."

With Varied Program at Belasco
Theater Last Evening.

The final concert of the U. S. Marine Band's eight-weeks' tour was given last night at the Belasco Theater in celebration of the home-coming. The musicians were in lively mood and responded liberally with encores. The program was a combination of the features of the afternoon and evening programs as given on the trip.

To such serious numbers as Johann Strauss' "Blue Danube" waltz and Arthur S. Whitcomb's cornet solo of Hock's "Pearl of the Ocean," the band played a parade for the new uniforms were issued by Postmaster Chance.

Robert E. Seel's flute solo was well applauded, and for a second number a French horn quartet provided a novel accompaniment. The concluding number was "The Star Spangled Banner," first read by Charles B. Hanford and then played by the band.

Capital Today Will Welcome
Electrical Prosperity WeekThoroughfares Will Blaze With Light as Whole Nation Joins in Celebration—Auto Parade Will Be Best Ever

Washington, often the scene of inaugural celebrations and convention festivities, will be treated to something entirely new tonight when Electrical Prosperity Week will be ushered in and Pennsylvania avenue, P street, Ninth and Seventh streets will be a blaze of light. Every thoroughfare along these streets has been asked to light its store from top to bottom at 8 o'clock and keep it illuminated several hours, and the promise of co-operation which have poured in have virtually swamped the committee in an avalanche of mail.

No stone has been left unturned to make Electrical Prosperity Week in Washington compare favorably with the celebrations that will begin today throughout the United States. As the nation's capital, it was thought befitting that the celebration here should, if anything, outdo those held elsewhere.

One of the special features of the week's festivities will be the big automobile parade tomorrow night. With several hundred owners of electric trucks, gasoline and electric runabouts, and every other type of "chug-chug" car already listed to be in the line of the parade, the affair promises to be the best of its kind ever held here.

The chairman of the committee said last night: "The carnival parade of the Mid-City Citizens' Association was good but we have profited by their success and the 'dress-up and fix-up week' program, principally in the interests of early Christmas shopping."

Starting at Sixteenth and U streets, at 8 o'clock, the procession will move west on U street to H street, west on H street to Seventeenth street, to Pennsylvania avenue and pass the White House to Peace Monument. In

HUCKSTER HELD
FOR AUTO DEATHW. O. Soper in Jail for Killing
H. A. Latimer at
Drummond, Md.ACCIDENT IS EXPLAINED
Police Kept Him Under Surveillance for Two Days, Hoping He Would Surrender to Authorities.

William O. Soper, a huckster, living near Clarkburg, Md., was arrested yesterday and locked up in the Rockville County Jail on a charge of causing the death, Wednesday night, of Harry A. Latimer, of Drummond, who was run down by an automobile near his home.

Soper admits hitting Latimer, declares Sheriff Peyton Whalen, of Montgomery County, Md. Soper said he thought Latimer was not injured, and did not believe it necessary to stop and assist him, police say.

The arrest was made on a clew furnished by Lieut. Glee, of the Tenthall police station, Washington. Lieut. Glee, aided by Detectives Armstrong and Emery, assisted Maryland authorities in developing the details leading to the arrest. Soper was kept under surveillance for forty-eight hours, police say, in the hope that he would surrender.

He was arrested shortly after midnight yesterday at his home. When aroused from his bed and told the charges against him, he collapsed. He told the authorities he did not know Latimer had died from his injuries.

According to Soper's alleged confession, he was riding home with Charles Mullinix, a friend, when he slowed down his automobile truck at Drummond for stopping of a foreign automobile. Four persons got out, three going across the road. The fourth, a man, hesitated and stepped back. Soper turned his truck out and he was struck.

His efforts to avoid the collision were futile. He thought the man was "merely" knocked down and not badly hurt and did not stop.

Latimer's legs and right arm were broken, his skull fractured, and he was injured internally. After his arrest, Soper retained John A. Garrett, a Rockville attorney, as his counsel. He will be given a preliminary hearing this week, it is believed.

DANZANSKY ASKS HELP
IN AIDING HEBREWS

Hebrews having relieved charitable institutions of other denominations from caring for aged Washington Jews left without means of support, Bernard Danzansky, president of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, made this an important point in his annual report before the annual meeting of the home in Adas Israel Synagogue last night.

Mr. Danzansky showed the work accomplished by the new institution since its inception a year ago. He urged the people of Washington to co-operate in aiding the home.

Mr. Danzansky spoke strongly in favor of the consolidation of all the various branches of Jewish charities in Washington under a single directorship, but no action was taken and the matter is still in the hands of a committee of five appointed at a previous meeting.

Danzansky was unanimously re-elected president of the home and presided over the meeting, which was well attended by the men of the congregation and the ladies of the auxiliary societies.

Other speakers during the evening were Rabbi George Silverman, Rabbi Benjamin I. Greenman, Rabbi M. A. Hurwitz and Milton Lerman, secretary of the home. In addition to Mr. Danzansky, the following were chosen to serve for the ensuing year: First vice president, Harry Abramson; secretary, Milton Lerman; treasurer, D. Hertzmark; chairman of the house committee, Marcus Korman; chief clerk, Isaac Weiss.
